UK Higher Education Mission to Hong Kong

Event details

Date: 5 – 7 March 2025

Location: Hong Kong and Shenzhen (Greater Bay Area)

UK partners: Department for Business and Trade (DBT), UK Research and Innovation (UKRI), and Universities UK International (UUKi)

Throughout the event, participants candidly addressed the challenges of collaborating with Hong Kong partners, fostering an open dialogue about the concerns and constraints that shape UK-Hong Kong engagement. This open exchange of ideas and experiences is crucial for building resilient academic partnerships that can navigate the complexities of the current higher education landscape.

About the mission

From 5-7 March 2025, the UK Higher Education Mission to Hong Kong brought together ten universities from across the UK for the first university delegation to visit Hong Kong in a decade. This initiative, led by the British Council, Department for Business and Trade (DBT), UK Research and Innovation (UKRI), and Universities UK International (UUKi), explored new avenues for research and educational partnerships, engage alumni, and enhance the UK higher education sector's understanding of the evolving policy landscape in Hong Kong.

The mission facilitated significant engagement with a diverse range of stakeholders, including Hong Kong policymakers, academic institutions, and senior representatives from the British Consulates General in Hong Kong and China (FCDO and DBT). Additionally, collaboration with the British Chamber of Commerce in Hong Kong, West Kowloon Cultural District, Science Park, and local education agencies underscored the mission's commitment to fostering meaningful connections.

The UK Higher Education Mission to Hong Kong represents a significant step towards revitalising educational ties and exploring innovative collaborations that benefit both regions. As the UK continues to adapt to the changing global education environment, initiatives like this mission highlight the importance of fostering international partnerships and creating pathways for future cooperation in research and education in Hong Kong.

East Asia Agents Conference

Event details

Date: 6 March 2025
Venue: The University of Hong Kong
UK partners: British Universities' International Liaison Association (BUILA), UK Visas and Immigration (UKVI)

About the mission

The East Asia Agents Conference 2025 built on the success of its inaugural event in February 2024. With over 229,000 international students from East Asia choosing to study in the UK, representing 30% of the total international student market, the conference addressed key issues in the industry.

The event focused on the latest UK policy updates on international education post-election, developments in the UK Agent Quality Framework (AQF), and the impact of new technology on business development. With changing demographics, digital-savvy clients, and evolving policies, the agent industry faces challenges that require innovative solutions.

Attendees had the opportunity to network with industry peers and gain useful information on the latest UK policies, new developments of AQF, and strategies on how to leverage new technologies. The aim of the conference was to provide agents with the tools and knowledge necessary to navigate the ever-changing landscape of international education.

Through the conference, agents had the opportunity to:

- Network with industry peers
- Discuss and share the latest industry innovations
- Gather information on developments in Study UK and the UK education sector
- Learn about the UK Agent Quality Framework (AQF)
- Enhance business practices by sharing and learning best practices with fellow professionals
- Hear from industry leaders on ideas, information, and inspiration for success
- Network with UK institutions to explore partnership opportunities

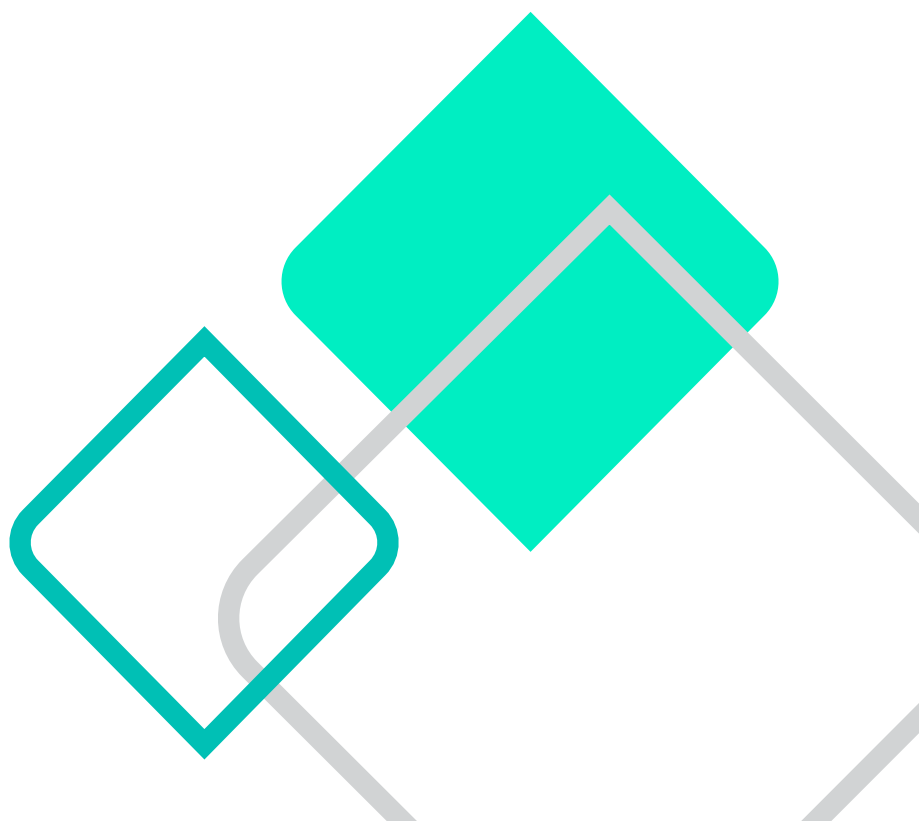

Participants

A total of 120 education agents attended the Agents Conference from 12 countries and territories. The conference audience comprised industry leaders, practitioners, and managing directors from overseas education agencies in the East Asia region. Distinguished senior officials from prominent agencies. Moreover, 49 representatives from renowned UK universities were also present.

Participants' Testimonials

Scarlett Peng

East Asia Regional Head at the University of Nottingham, Co-Chair of East Asia RIG BUILD

'The AQF framework fosters trust and collaboration between UK universities and agents. It enables UK universities to work confidently with British Council registered and AQF accredited agents knowing they adhere to high professional standards.'

Daniel Zheng

Managing Director, Hope International Education

'The East Asia Education Conference has given us many takeaways, such as the market trends, the concerns of parents from different countries, issues highlighted by UK institutions, and how we can work together. This was a very practical conference!'

Dave Few

Jack Study Abroad, Singapore

'The biggest takeaways of today were understanding the data, identifying trends, and visualising the information we already know about student mobility – for example, what drives students' choices – and seeing the impact the UK is having in this area.'

“

The event provided a great opportunity to connect with experts in the field and like-minded peers. It was thoughtfully organised, and the topics were carefully selected to provide attendees with preparation for shaping the future.

I would like to attend more events like this. At first, I had less passion and felt exhausted from my work, so I just went home and rested afterwards. I was not sure I really wanted this job, but after attending this event, I knew what I had to do, and it made me realise how I really feel about my job now. I gained more connections and met with new people. It was an excellent experience and also my first visit to Hong Kong.

“

I would highly recommend this event to friends and colleagues. It offers valuable networking opportunities, insightful discussions, and meaningful connections with fellow UK alumni and industry leaders.

Participants' Testimonials

Dato' Kathleen Chew Wai Lin

Group Legal Counsel, YTL Corporation Berhad

'I think it was the energy in the room, not just from the panel but also the audience, and it came from having four generations of UK alumni together, all deeply engaged in the subjects they were passionate about. As a panellist, I think that was really invigorating.'

Michael Wong

Board Member, Oxford University Alumni Board

'Well, this symposium was a brilliant occasion because I really enjoyed the sense of community, especially with all the UK alumni coming together and people sharing the same kind of educational heritage. It felt inspiring, and the vibes were excellent. I believe that from our discussions, the meetings, and the conversations, we can all figure out what kind of impact we are able to make together as a group for the betterment of the world.'

Ngo Thi Hai Yen

Woman in STEM Scholar Alumni 2022, Medical Science Liaison, Pfizer (Vietnam)

'I had a great chance to meet with my friends from the UK, to connect with them and listen to their stories, which was very helpful, and also listen to the panel discussion to learn about the developing trends in the industry and how they may affect my career. It offered me an understanding of the situation and how to find opportunities in the future.'

The people I met during my education in the UK have been incredibly important and have played a significant role in shaping my career. Women in STEM alumni and the lecturers and supervisors I met during my studies at Liverpool John Moores University have all inspired me along the way.'
